The case of violence against children never ends, everyday in the mass media both print and electronic always show how children become victims in many cases. This is quite tragic considering that the world of children should be characterized by playing, learning, and developing interests and talents for the future. However, in reality children become victims of violence both physical and sexual.

This study aims to provide information or knowledge about the forms of law protection of children as victims of sexual violence. In addition, this study is also intended to be able to find out how the aspects of law protection are considered in the judge's decision number 07/Pid.sus.Anak/2017/PN.Pwt.

The results suggest that there are some forms of law protection afforded to children as victims of sexual violence that are regulated in the Law both criminal code, as well as the child protection act. In addition, in the decision of judge number 07/Pid.sus.Anak/2017/PN.Pwt, the law protection for victims both explicit and implicit are not fully implemented, only limited assistance during the examination in the trial.
